There is no child who cannot learn

By | May 23, 2017

Ram Kishore is a primary school teacher in a government school in Bidhoura, Sitarganj in Udham Singh Nagar, Uttarakhand. For the 50 students of the school, he is the only teacher. The learners are first generation learners who also double up as serious helping hands to their parents during harvest season. Despite these challenges, Ram Kishore is a shining example of a teacher who strongly believes (and practically demonstrates) that unless we make schools enjoyable to them we can't fully engage them.

The video highlights how the Azim Premji Foundation has been working closely with the government primary schools on quality and equality of education with some examples.

Tags: government schools
single teacher school

Source URL: http://teachersofindia.org/en/spotlight/there-no-child-who-cannot-learn